By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Russian press gave the people the news today of the British foreign office's denial of a peace proposal meeting as reported by Pravda's Cairo correspondent Monday, but made no editorial comment.

Here We Go Again!

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (INS)—David Anderson, NBC reporter in Stockholm, broadcast today that newspapers in the Swedish capital "will headline a story... to the effect that Hitler has dispatched semi-official representatives to Ankara to discuss separate peace terms with Russian diplomats."

The headlined stories, which he said will be credited to the Geneva newspaper La Suisse, will appear "within the next hour."

EDEN WARNS SPAIN TO QUIT AIDING NAZIS

By LEQ. V. DOLAN

LONDON, Jan. 19 (INS)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden reversed to Commons today he had warned Spain of results of continuing unilateral assistance to the Axis, such as the presence of the Spanish blue division on the Russian front.

Continued acts of that nature, Eden told Generalissimo Francisco Franco's government, can have a "most serious effect... on Anglo-Spanish relations now and in the future."

British Ambassador Sir Samuel Hoare warned Madrid in similar fashion.

Eden was pitted with numerous questions over the ticklish Russo-Polish frontier situation, but replied:

"I don't think it would be a good thing to try to discuss all these extremely difficult and delicate matters at this question hour. Naturally, they are absorbing the constant thoughts of the government, and we are in closest touch with the Soviets and the Poles."

"Our prevailing desire is to bring about a friendly settlement which will be of the utmost consequence to the future of Europe."

"We are not without hope that a favorable solution may be attained."

Reds Aim To Lift Siege of Leningrad

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Jan. 19 (AP)—Red army forces on the Leningrad and Volkhov fronts in northern Russia sprang forward today in a new offensive calculated to end the German siege of Leningrad, second city of the Soviet Union.

Two neighboring army groups, it was disclosed, launched simultaneous assaults several days ago to break through strong German defense lines and are now developing their drives on a large scale.

Russian troops on the Leningrad front began their push south of the suburban town of Oranienbaum, 20 miles west of the city adjoining Peterhof, known as the Versailles of Russia and the former home of the czars. The town lies on the shores of the Baltic.

At the same time Red Army forces on the Volkhov front attacked north of Novgorod, 100 miles southwest of Leningrad between Lake Ilmen and the Baltic.

The twin operations appeared to have been planned jointly to break the German semi-circle around Leningrad, under constant threat of enemy bombardment.

Dispatches reported continued gains in the western Ukraine despite rain and mud. Here Gen. Vatutin's first Ukrainian army increased its threat to the key communications center of Rovno, 110 miles south of Pinsk.

Troops of Vatutin's center stormed the town of Slavuta, on the Warsaw-Berchiv main trunk line and the Gorin river, 32 miles southeast of Rovno. They bypassed the rail junction of Shepetovka, 13 miles to the southeast, in their advance, and captured a railway train, many big guns and stores of supplies.

STIMSON CITES AEF UNREST IN SERVICE PLEA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)

War Secretary Stimson asked Congress for national service legislation today with the assertion industrial unrest and a "lack of a sense of patriotic responsibility" on the home front had "aroused a strong feeling of resentment and injustice among the men of the armed forces."

"It will be tragic indeed if the discontent and resentment felt by our gallant soldiers on the fighting fronts burn deeply and fester in their hearts," he told the Senate military committee.

Reviewing labor troubles in the railroad, coal and steel industries, Stimson declared "it does not require great imagination to realize the effect of these occurrences upon our troops."

He added: "The men in the Army see this country divided into two entirely distinct classes. On the one hand are the men who are fighting in the armed forces... They have been told not only that they must serve, but the time, the place and the method of their service has been chosen for them."

"On the other side they see the government imposes no corresponding duty upon the remaining men of the nation and even permits them to leave the most important war jobs without regard to the needs of the country."

The armed forces, he stated, "are beginning to feel that they are being discriminated against."

Yesterday the House military affairs committee quietly pigeonholed the "draft-for-all" measure.

HAVANA, Jan. 19 (INS)—Kathleen Vanderbilt, daughter of the late Reginald Vanderbilt of New York, was seriously ill today at the Anglo-American Hospital in Havana.

Nazi Division Trapped by Tito

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Yugoslav Partisans have trapped a German motorized division of 400 vehicles near Lipovac in western Bosnia and wild fighting now is progressing through rugged hill country against the encircled Nazis and a second division rushed to its assistance, Marshal Tito announced today.

Units of the 3d Yugoslav Corps, taking the offensive, were reported pushing the Germans back in the vicinity of Magaj, Tuzla and Zvornik in eastern Bosnia.

Heart on Right, But She's WAC

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Jan. 19 (AP)

—The Army today described Miss Marie Veilleux of Bridgeport as a girl whose heart is in the wrong place anatomically but in the right place patriotically.

Miss Veilleux, 20, enlisted in the Women's Air Corps as an AlRWAC at New Haven this week. She sped through all of the tests until Maj. E. C. Verstandig applied the stethoscope to the place where her heart should have been. He looked puzzled. Then amazed as he moved the instrument to the right side of her body.

"This girl's heart is on her right side," he announced.

Complete examination of Miss Veilleux furnished no grounds for rejection.

"It was as much of a surprise to me as it was to everyone else," she laughed.

U. S. Indians Stalk Jungle Japs

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 19 (AP)—Knife-wielding American Indians of 20 tribes, backed by such modern components of war as tanks and bombing planes, are stalking Japanese in the tropical jungles of New Britain.

Proud of their ability to thread through dense growth, these skilled tribesmen of Arizona and New Mexico ended a stalemate at invaded Arawe on the southwest coast by breaking through main enemy defenses to such depth that field guns were captured.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters reported the success today.

Each equipped with several knives as well as pistol and rifle, these Indians, forming part of the 158th Regiment of "Bushmasters," penetrated 1000 yards through enemy lines while the Japanese still were groggy from an 87-ton air bombardment.

The "Bushmasters," whose ability to transmit secret communications in tribal tongues should prove baffling to the Japanese, were sent to Panama during the early days of the war to become the first American troops trained in jungle tactics. Last April, they left the Canal Zone and on June 30 first appeared in the Southwest Pacific war zone, unopposed, they occupied Kiriwina island in the Trobriand group off the southeastern tip of New Guinea. It was from there they moved in to reinforce the Texas dismounted cavalrymen who opened the invasion of New Britain at Arawe last Dec. 13.

The Texans had quickly swept patrols beyond Umtungulu village, five miles up the east coast from Cape Merkus and on past the unserviceable airstrip. The Japanese later regained these two points.

AEF Spread Over England

By AUSTEN LAKE

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (by transport plane)—You can bet all the T's in tittle-tattle that Irving Berlin's old song murdering the bugler wasn't founded just on good-natured whimsy. No soldier, however seasoned, quite outgrows the agony of the first brass notes of the trumpet, or the first shrill squeal of the sergeant's whistle. It's always good for a CUSS.

In winter England it is still nighttime when "first call" sounds—not the delicate rose glow of dawn or the first gray twilight of coming day—but night as black as a whale's skin. You lurch from between W. O. D. blankets like plunging naked from June into January. So the wise soldier sleeps in his heavy underwear, lest he find his body moisture congeals during the night and transforms his "longies" into a suit of medieval armor.

So the moon was still in the sky, shaped like the paring of a lady's fingernail, as Corp. Patten and I jeaped westward. We breakfasted at a G. I. mess just outside of town, for the traveling soldier on duty, or a uniformed newsmen, is always sure of open house along the road.

There were scrambled eggs made from a batter of powder, which in its dry state looks like yellow soap chips. (It lacks the true egg flavor.) And dry cereal, moistened with thinned condensed milk (you get used to it quickly), and pallid hot coffee in cans the size of fire hydrants. And bread of a dark, heavy texture, made of coarse-milled grain.

Balloons on Guard

The men ate stolidly with little talk, leaning close to their food under dim electric lights, and rising moodily to dump their leftovers in a central garbage pail, douse their mess kits in a can of boiling rinse water, and drift into the growing half light. The G. I. isn't buoyant in the first hour of rising, but his spirits thaw by sunset—if there is a sun.

The Big Town (the censor won't pass its name) lay an hour's distance over an up-and-down road that ran like a roller coaster. Sun began to glaze the tops of the hills, but the bottoms lay in deep shadow.

Far ahead in a shell pink sky barrage balloons floated, tiny, silver sentinels, their invisible cables bowed treacherously for any enemy aircraft.

There were New Englanders inside the town with its undulating roofs and irregular chimney posts—houses that stood like files of soldiers, with bomb gaps in between. These were old scars, for now the Luftwaffe seldom challenges the RAF fighter patrols—

Lake Gets New Stories From Boys Tomorrow

"Home—via Berlin" is the sentiment Austen Lake, Boston American war correspondent, finds uppermost among New England's fighting men somewhere in England, trained to razor sharpness for the coming assault on the Continent.

In Thursday's American, Lake relays messages to home folks of men from Hyde Park, Lynn, Attleboro, Lowell, East Boston, Mattapan, Waltham, Malden, Norwood, Lawrence, Bridgewater, Northampton, Westfield, Mattapoisett, Providence, Burlington, Vt.; Warwick, R. I.; Medford, Hopkinton, Peabody, and Worcester. Read Lake's vivid description of the grueling maneuvers your soldiers are undergoing in tomorrow's Boston American. "Nothing harder in Tunisia or Sicily," according to a British officer.

$30,000 Attleboro Fire

ATTLEBORO, Jan. 19 (AP)—A two-alarm fire today damaged a Liggett drug store and smoke damaged adjoining stores and offices in a business block on Main st. Firemen said the damage probably would reach $30,000.

Wrong Juggle

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19—William C. Wagner, juggler known professionally as Billy Rayes, testified that his wife, Leila Steppe, of the stage, annoyed him by sitting on the edge of his bed to juggle it and keep him awake. "I have to have my rest so I can juggle," he complained. He got the divorce.

WACs' Blood Sent to Billy

CHANUTE FIELD, Ill., Jan. 19—More than 200 soldiers and WACs today donated a pint of blood each for Billy Meers, the Dallas, Tex., youngster who can live only as long as plasma rolls in.

Little Billy, sufferer of incurable nephritis, meanwhile is showing steady improvement following blood transfusions from plasma sent from Boston, one of the first centers of the nation to respond.

The 200 pints of plasma given here will be flown to Dallas later today by Maj. Gaillard R. Peck, director of flying at Chanute Field's four-engine bomber school.

"I know just how valuable plasma is," Maj. Peck told the Associated Press. "My young brother died after a bomber crash but plasma did a remarkable job in keeping him alive for many days when it was first thought he would not live for hours."

Senators to Probe Liquor Black Market

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Senators investigating the liquor shortage called in officials of the Office of Price Administration today for an accounting of what they have done to "break up bootlegging and black markets."

"We want to find out just how far these officials have gone in forcing down the price of blended whiskies made up mostly of neutral spirits and bearing fancy new labels," Sen. Ferguson (R.) of Michigan, told reporters.

Call FBI in Joan Barry Tangle

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19 (INS)—Several witnesses, including FBI agents, will be called today when a federal grand jury resumes investigation into the arrest in Beverly Hills last year of 23-year-old Joan Barry, also known Berry.

Miss Barry, former dramatic protegee of Charlie Chaplin, is suing the English comedian on a charge that he is the father of her three-months-old baby girl.

Judge Charles J. Griffin, who sentenced Miss Barry to 90 days in jail, wrote U. S. Atty. Charles W. Carr asking the right to appear before the jury. Carr said the request probably will be granted.

Red-haired Miss Barry is expected to be called, Carr indicated, but she probably will not appear before Thursday.

The grand jury is probing charges that her rights were violated when she was given a one-way ticket East. According to the charge she was arrested when she returned and sent to jail.

When it was discovered that Miss Barry was to become a mother the charge was set aside.

House's O. K. On Vets' Pay Due by Night

By FRANK REILLY

Boston American Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Friends of the veterans had their day in the House today and predicted passage before nightfall of an adequate mustering-out pay bill. Debate centered on two amendments, one of them the Lemke amendment, which would up the $300 proposed by the Administration to $700.

Sixty members of the House, including Reps. Philip J. Philbin and Thomas J. Lane of Massachusetts, and its sponsor, Rep. William Lemke of North Dakota, are leaders in this fight, which would give maximum allotments of $100 on discharge and $50 a month for a full year for all veterans of nine or more months of service.

This Lemke group, gathering supporters all the time, is determined that a government which can spend billions on nations throughout the world shall not toss but a $300 "sop" to men who have offered their lives in defense of country.

The ranks of those who held to the $300 figure thinned somewhat today with repercussions from the defense of the bill sounded earlier by Rep. Dewey Short of Missouri.

"America has been generous with her veterans," Short told his colleagues. "We pay their burial and funeral expenses, and every man who dies can have an American flag on his coffin." Members listened in stunned silence.

In the first round of the fight, Administration leaders had their

Hollywood Gets The Bear Facts

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19 (AP)—The four Bets who became five, then six, then five as they journeyed across the continent a few days ago are four again.

One of the mama bears gave birth to twin cubs on the train. This and a free-for-all bear fight made express messengers wonder why they hadn't entered some other line of endeavor.

One cub died at once and was buried on the desert. Rose Kress, associate trainer, nursed the surviving 7-ounce twin, feeding it a mixture of milk and bourbon whisky. Today it was disclosed that it, too, has died.

"Personally, I think she went a little strong on the milk," a movie prop man commented.

The adult bears were brought here to become actors. They're complicating studio life by drowsing at rehearsals. It is their hibernation time.

Better 'Button Your Lip' on Invasion Talk

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Emphasizing the need for doing everything helpful to "the fortunes of Gen. Eisenhower's invading army," the Office of Censorship today called for "a complete moratorium on backstairs gossip and hair-line authenticity" in connection with the coming assault on Fortress Europe.

Byron Price, the censorship director, issued this note to newspaper editors and radio broadcasters for publication:

"The coming invasion of Europe confronts voluntary censorship with its greatest single responsibility. There is no way to conceal from the enemy that an invasion is in prospect, or that the British Isles will be used as a base. What we must protect at all hazards is information of the time and place of attack, the strength of the attacking force, and its technical makeup and equipment.

"This is not a field for the customary competitive news-gathering. No American newspaper man or broadcaster will want the distinction of being first to disclose where, when and how our troops will strike. But no one should forget for a moment that inadvertent disclosures are exactly as valuable to the enemy as deliberate disclosures.

KEEP PLAN SECRET

"In every reference to the coming operations you are earnestly requested to keep in mind the code provisions against publication or broadcast, without appropriate authority, of:

- "1—Secret war plans.
- "2—Movement of ships and troops (including movements or shifts of high officers and personnel known for specialized activities).
- "3—Allied or enemy secret weapons and equipment and counter measures of defense. Weapons and defense measures of the enemy are included because it would be to his advantage to know how good our intelligence is.

"4—International negotiations which concern military operations.

"Special precautions are necessary regarding information from abroad which bears on the invasion and involves any of the subjects listed above. No such information should be published or broadcast in this country if the enemy would be informed thereby. Information in the listed categories coming direct from a neutral or Allied country, but which might not be generally available in that country, should be submitted to the Office of Censorship before use.

"This restriction does not apply to material from enemy countries; material originating in the British Isles and cleared by British censorship; material cleared by Allied military censorship overseas; or material which already has been published, sent by radio, or otherwise generally disseminated in any area abroad. The test should be, 'Does the enemy know this?'

BAE SPECULATION

"All speculation about the invasion should be kept strictly within the limits laid down in the codes and no device of speculation or precaution used to disclose restricted information. Bear in mind that it is always hazardous, in connection with future operations, to mention dates, even by month or season; or to point out the likelihood or desirability of a landing in one country or on one particular section of the coast; or to forecast how many troops or units will be employed.

"Opinion on these subjects should be labeled as opinion, and no attempt to set forth actual expectations of the high command should be made (except in case of formal official announcement) without prior reference to this office.

"The appropriate authority for any disclosure within the restricted list must be of absolutely unquestioned standing if security is to be protected. We need urgently a complete moratorium on backstairs gossip and hair-line authenticity regarding this critical battle. In case of the slightest doubt, consult the Office of Censorship. Let us have no black market in information so dangerous to American life.

"Recently the codes have been relaxed in several respects but in no respect which touches the fortunes of Gen. Eisenhower's invading army. Please take no chances."

Fix Blame in 72 Wreck Deaths

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission reported today that "failure to provide adequate protection for derailed cars" caused the Dec. 16, 1943, wreck on the Atlantic Coast Line railroad near Rennett, N. C., in which 72 persons were killed and 187 injured.

The commission said that if members of the crew of a derailed southbound train had furnished proper flag protection and had made a thorough inspection of the train, "the collision between the northbound train and the derailed cars could have been prevented."

Rich Do Odd Jobs At High Bond Wage

By CARROLL ARIMOND

WINNETKA, Ill., Jan. 19 (INS)—Residents of this fashionable Chicago suburb auctioned off their services ranging from dish washing to portraiture last night to neighbors who paid off in war bonds totaling $1,144,000.

The "odd-jobs" auction opening the village's Fourth War Loan drive shot the night's total over the million mark when 32 persons pooled bids aggregating $239,000 for the services of Mrs. Anita W. Burnham who offered to paint any picture of their choice or give a lecture.

Hughston M. McBain, Chicago department store president, whose talent as a snow shoveler went for $20,000, bought $150,000 in bonds to have his wood chopped by the Holman D. Pettibone, father and son. Pettibone, Sr., is president of the Chicago Title & Trust and the Chicago Ass'n of Commerce.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club, "bought" McBain for one shoveling of his 100-foot sidewalk and purchased $19,000 in bonds to have Frederick Scott, president of another Chicago department store, wash his dog.

For one day's typing by Mrs. Chessie Campbell, the Chicago Title & Trust Co. paid $100,000. Two groups of debutantes willing to mind children any night except Saturday, went for $10,000 and $20,000. Other services included sculpturing a statue, $35,000; washing an automobile, $27,500; cooking a meal, $30,000; buggy riding a baby, $12,000.

Nine bidders pooled their purses and cut down a half hour prepared speech by a Treasury representative to complete slavery and a bow by buying bonds worth $50,000.

Earl Long Has Louisiana Lead

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19 (AP)

—The strong race of Earl K. Long, brother of the late Senator Huey P. Long, for the lieutenant-governorship of Louisiana in yesterday's Democratic primary nearly overshadowed the race for the governorship, indicating as it did the strength of the bid of the Long faction for a return to power.

Long appeared to be running ahead of Lewis L. Morgan, the gubernatorial candidate on the "old regular" Long ticket, and on the face of partial returns seemed certain to be in the runoff primary—if there should be one. His "reform" opponent, on the ticket of Jimmie L. Davis, was Emile J. Verret.

Arizonian, Top RAF Ace, Killed in Italy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 19 (AP)—Lance C. Wade, RAF squadron leader from Tucson, Ariz., top-ranking ace of this theater, met death in a flying accident in Italy, Jan. 12, it was announced today.

Wade, regarded by many as this war's greatest fighter pilot, had shot down 25 enemy planes in combat.

War Bond Drive Aided by Sub Vet

Back in Boston for the first time since he left for submarine duty in the Pacific two years ago, Coxswain Joseph H. Manley, Jr., 23, of Chalm Ave., Roslindale, today pitched in as a Fourth War Loan worker and offered practically all of his furlough time to aid in the drive.

"The fellows out there in the Pacific know what war bonds mean," Manley told F. W. Denio, state chairman of the campaign, in volunteering to give talks or "help in any other way to make this drive a success."

Bond sales soared in the fruit exchange area, Charlestown, where subscription headquarters have been set up by H. Harris & Co., 395 Rutherford ave. Cutler B. Downer, senior partner of the firm, said he expected purchases totaling $150,000 today. Biggest subscriber among early comers was Albert A. Leone, owner of the Reliable Fruit Co., who bought a $20,000 bond.

OFF TO GOOD START

Denio disclosed that rapid-fire bond sales show the drive is off to a good start in Massachusetts, which has a quota of $794,000,000 as its share of the huge national goal of $14,000,000,000.

Volunteer workers in the huge drive were the guests at a "kick-off party" staged at the Hotel Statler last night and early this morning. The wind-up of the party, given by the hotel as a tribute to the volunteers, was broadcast coast-to-coast over Station WEEL and the Columbia Broadcasting System.

School Bell Tolls For Bridegroom, 14

STRATFORD, Ct., Jan. 19—David Meyers, Jr., 14-year-old high school sophomore, and his salesgirl bride, the former Edna Taylor, 19, were happily honeymooning in New York today, oblivious to frantic appeals from parents and the threat of the truant officer.

Disclosure that they had met the preacher came when Edna telephoned her mother, Mrs. William P. Taylor, in nearby Fairfield to say:

"We're married and awfully happy. Mother. We're going to live together and no one can part us now. I'm going to get a job and support my Davey."

Although Mrs. Taylor accepted things philosophically, David's parents appeared to be far from pleased. The couple left immediately for New York after issuing this brief statement:

"David is going back to high school just as soon as we find him."

Another who had the same idea was the city's truant officer, although he promised no action until the youngster comes home.

"I'll just sit tight until he returns," he said. "Then we'll see that he goes back to school."

GIRL OFFERS ALIBI FOR BOY ON TRIAL

A Revere girl today testified in Suffolk Superior Court John Leahy, 19, of Richfield st., Dorchester, was with her caring for her sister's baby on nights he was supposed to have robbed four Dorchester houses.

"We minded my sister's baby every Wednesday night from October on," Miss Lena Merlina of Arnold st., Revere, Leahy's girl friend, testified.

Leahy, his twin brother, Robert, and John Cashman, 21, of Gene st., Dorchester, were charged with breaking and entering, Robert and Cashman pleaded guilty and testified in behalf of John, who maintained his innocence.

Miss Merlina said John was with her "five nights out of seven every week and called me up the other two nights."

John said he lied when he admitted the burglaries to police of Station 11. He testified he "was persuaded by action of hands and threats to embarrass my girl friend."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Ralph Bernard summoned Special Officer Edward V. Murphy in rebuttal, and he denied any threats or beatings. He said he confronted John with a slip giving Miss Merlina's address and John pleaded: "For God's sake, don't go near her, she never knew I was in trouble."

Mrs. Eleanor Convery of Richfield st., Dorchester, sister of the Leahy boys, testified she heard a policeman at Station 11 promise not to "bother John's girl friend if he admitted the crimes." She said John had bruises on his face after questioning by police.

The jury was expected to get the case late today.

Suing Wife Explains Whisky-Glass Toss

Mrs. Thelma Davison of Danvers told her version of the hair-pulling and whisky glass-throwing battle in a Salem cafe today in Middlesex probate court where she testified in her own behalf in a cross suit for divorce from Walter M. Davison of Wakefield, treasurer of the Wakefield Machine Co.

Acting on a tip from a telephone caller, she said, she went to a grill in Salem and saw her husband in a booth with another woman, and a Mr. and Mrs. Russell.

"I went up to him and said, 'Why don't you tell her she's a tramp and not worth my little finger. You promised me you'd tell her that a week ago,'" she said.

"I started to leave, when I heard a loud, sneering laugh from the girl. I went back and picked up a glass of whisky on the table. I meant to throw the drink at my husband, but the glass slipped and hit him on the head," she related.

A free-for-all resulted, she explained, and she and her sister, who accompanied her, left the cafe.

Since then she hasn't lived with her husband, she said, but she recalled previous quarrels.

Once, she said, he "punched me until I was black and blue and dragged me up stairs practically by my head." Another time only the intervention of his mother prevented his beating her up, she said. The case is continuing.

Soldiers Want Right to Vote

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP)—American soldiers in Europe and the Middle East want to vote in the presidential election and the question of whether the state or the federal government controls the machinery is not important, says Stars and Stripes, U. S. Army newspaper.
Stars and Stripes, which conducted a poll of officers and men in the European theater, added that the average serviceman, in emphasizing his desire to cast his ballot next fall, "would like it well understood at home that he wants no political manipulation to prevent that vote."

RACE CHARGES SPUR MOVE BY R. I. GOVERNOR

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 19—Expressing his surprise over the drawing up of complaints listing 21 instances of anti-Semitic disturbances in this state recently, Gov. J. Howard McGrath prepared to issue a formal statement concerning the charges today.

Attacks on Jewish children and desecration of synagogues were cited in the complaints, handed to the governor by a delegation of Jewish leaders. They requested that immediate steps be taken to halt such activities.

Gov. McGrath told the group he was astonished by their charges because he had heard few, if any, reports of racial animosities in the state.

The delegation, consisting of officials of Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai B'rith, gave the Governor affidavits from victims of alleged anti-Semitic attacks, based on a probe conducted by representatives of the New England regional office of the anti-defamation league of B'nai B'rith.

The Governor was urged to appoint a commission "with appropriate powers to investigate, prosecute and eradicate these un-American developments" as one of several steps in a program against occurrences which the group said "reveal the same pattern as has recently been found in Boston and New York."

The complaints also told of distribution of scurrilous and obscene anti-Semitic literature, especially in war plants and bases. Officers at the Quonset Naval Air Station denied receiving any reports of anti-Semitic incidents there, however.

Draft Boards to Help Vets Get Back Jobs

Draft boards throughout the state today were under orders to aid returning servicemen to get back their old jobs or help them get new ones.

The order went out from Col. Ralph M. Smith, state director of selective service.

Hail Hub Marines For Rescue of 29

Nevada crew members, Navy armed guardsmen and Army personnel, numbering a total of 64, were directed by Capt. Turiga into two large lifeboats of 32 men each.

But in the lowering, the captain's life boat was hit by a heavy wave and capsized. Capt. Turiga and his 31 companions were lost.

Capt. W. H. McKOWN, 56, of Allston st., Beacon Hill, first officer of the Nevada, was in charge of the second lifeboat and it was his seafaring skill which enabled the boat to keep afloat in the teeth of the storm.

The Nevada was alone and listing heavily when the Comanche arrived.

It was impossible to bring the cutter alongside the lifeboat in the heavy seas, with the craft being lifted high above the cutter's deck on the crests of wind-lashed combers.

Yank Killing 75 Japs With One Toss Loses Life

By TECH. SERGT. MAURICE E. MORAN

Marine Combat Correspondent BOUGAINVILLE (Delayed)—“Pineapple” Puckett died today, cut down by a hidden Jap machine gunner while directing aid to a fallen companion.

“Pineapple” Puckett was Marine Platoon Sergt. Clarence D. Puckett, 23, of Detroit, a great, confident lad, 6 feet 3 inches tall, with arms like young oak trees. He wore two .45 pistols, carried any shoulder weapon he could find, and as many grenades as he could pack.

He won his nickname nearly a month ago when in one action he hurled 33 grenades and accounted for 75 Jap dead.

John C. Peters, pharmacist's mate, second class, U. S. N. R., 18, of Caryville, Fla., Navy hospital corpsman, said a Jap machine gun “opened up a little to the left, where ‘Puck’ was, and got the Marine nearest to him. ‘Puck’ stood up and bellowed, using his big body as a marker to show litter bearers where the wounded Marine was.

“I yelled at him to get down, but he was still bellowing for a litter bearer when another burst cut him down.

“When I reached ‘Puck,’ I saw he was hit badly in the chest—but there wasn't a chance of getting litter bearers to him. The other Marine was dead. I asked ‘Puck’ could he make it back 75 yards himself to where there were bearers and he just gasped, ‘Sure, kid.’ He forced himself into a crouch and actually ran that 75 yards.”

Then, with a tired sigh, the big fellow lapsed into unconsciousness. He died a few hours later.

Gas Stamp Ring Probed by OPA

New secret methods are being used to spot bogus gas coupons on sheets turned in by filling station proprietors, OPA officials revealed today as federal agents sought to trace another counterfeit ring flooding this region with fake B-2 and C-2 stamps.

Huge quantities of these coupons, most of them crudely printed, are showing up in Greater Boston, Providence and other New England war centers, declared Cornelius Moynihan, regional OPA enforcement officer.

U. S. Secret Service agents and other federal law officers were reported investigating the counterfeit ring's activities here.

LET 'EM HAVE IT . . . BUY BONDS!

Today, with the eyes of the world upon us, THE FOURTH WAR LOAN IS LAUNCHED!

TODAY, the 18th of January, America's Fourth War Loan starts.

It is the largest of all war loans in terms of individual participation—in the amount you must dig down for.

And—it is, perhaps, the most important of all War Loans. For it comes at a time when the eyes of all the world are upon us; the eyes of our friends, the eyes of our enemies, the eyes of our own fighting men.

We have just entered the crucial year of the war, a year of destiny, a year that promises to decide how good or bad a world we'll have to live in all the rest of our lives. And the world is wondering how deeply we mean it when we promise our men we'll back their attack, and when we promise our Allies we'll stick with them not only through the winning of the war but through the winning of the peace as well.

The Fourth War Loan is the home front's first big test of this new and vital year. It will take unity and determination of will of all the people to make the Loan succeed.

The need for this and other War Loans should be clear to every American. This war is the costliest effort ever undertaken by any country. It costs 250 million dollars each day. This is just the cost of the war, in addition to the regular, inescapable cost of running a great and huge country. Taxes can't take care of all this outgo. Neither can government borrowing from insurance companies, savings banks, corporations, and other large investors. It is necessary to turn to the people, their weekly wages, their savings account, the money tucked away in pantry sugar bowls, in socks, under mattresses.

This is as it should be. In a democracy, war is the business of all the people. Some must fight, some must work and put up the money.

It's the only way to raise the money. It's also the right way to raise the money. It gives you a good place to invest the extra money you have today. It's a curb on inflation, on that dangerous bulk of pocket money that leads to black markets and disastrous spending. It's a mattress for tomorrow, a sort of individually planned Social Security that will bring in welcome money in the years ahead when income might not be the Mississippi flood it is today.

These last are not the reasons for the Loans. They are extra reasons, however, over and above the $1 interest you get on every $3 you invest. The fundamental reason for the Fourth War Loan is that your beloved America, at war and in danger, needs your help!

Every one who has a job or savings, should invest at least $100—if possible, $200, $300, or $500 extra. Some 5,000,000 Americans, volunteers, will be working to sell these Bonds. One of these volunteers will ask you to buy, where you work, at your home, or some other place. If by some chance, you're missed, find out where to buy and buy on your own.

The place where you work will have a quota. That's where you should make your major investment. That's where your personal quota really counts.

But...

The place you live also has a quota. Try to invest there, too. Other people will ask you. Salespeople, in retail stores, have volunteered to help and have an individual quota. If they ask you to buy, try to buy from them, too. Movie theaters, restaurants, schools, banks, postoffices, and many other places also will be selling Bonds.

The Fourth Loan is a test of us as a nation, as a people.

The eyes of our fighting men are upon us to see if we are backing them.

... The eyes of our Allies are upon us to see if we are with them.

... The eyes of our enemies are upon us to see if we are soft enough to fall for a non-victorious, here-today-gone-tomorrow peace...

Are we? The answer is in your pocket!

HEALTH QUIZ

- Do you have poor digestion? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel headachy after eating? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you get sour or upset easily? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel tired—listless? ☐ YES ☐ NO

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails—your food may remain undigested—like sour and heavy in your digestive tract.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Red Talk

where there is no fire. This is being pointed out today.

Discussing another term of the reported proposal—Germany's willingness to scrap her fleet and submarines immediately—a Russian friend of mine said:

"Destroying her subs would, of course, bring lots of satisfaction to the United States."

So far the United States is not being brought into the discussion among subway and street car crowds, but publication of the Sunday Times piece will probably introduce that subject before night-fall.

The story said the peace proposals were believed to have come from Hitler himself and were based on the possibility of disunion among Britain, the United States and Russia.

United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman worked at the embassy, Spasso House, through most of yesterday and his lights were on far into the night. American correspondents who have been trying since Monday to see him were told he would like to see them but "just doesn't have the time right now."

Pravda Prints British Denial Like First Report

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, Jan. 19 (INS)—According to advices received here, Pravda printed Great Britain's official denial of the Cairo peace story in the same form and occupying exactly the same space on the foreign news page as the original 10-line item which whipped the diplomatic world into a lather.

Other leading Russian dailies, including Izvestia, official government organ, and the army newspaper Red Star, also published the denial, credited to the Soviet news agency Tass and in turn to the Reuters of Britain.

WHAT PRAVDA SAID

In general, the situation was believed eased by publication of the disclaimer, even though it did not mention official representations made to the Kremlin by the British embassy in Moscow. Neither was the first formal denial by the foreign office in London published textually.

With a credit line to Tass and under the heading "Statement of British foreign office," this was what appeared in Pravda: "In London Monday, according to Reuters, the British foreign office repudiates rumors reported in a cable from Pravda's Cairo correspondent, according to which there was allegedly a meeting of two

Pigskin Kicks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Plans for manufacture of 1,000,000 pairs of the new type of combat boot for the Army and for needed replacements of the conventional type, plus a falling off in imports of hides, may bring pigskin shoes for civilians. The War Production Board (WPB) discloses that under the plans now being considered, pigskin would be used for the uppers of certain types of civilian shoes in conjunction with synthetic rubber soles and heels.

English leading personalities with Ribbentrop."

The Pravda item said clearly the original dispatch was a "cable," which of necessity would have had to pass through the strict Cairo censorship, which is equally on guard against dissemination of military secrets and of propaganda likely to damage United Nations unity.

Therefore, it seemed unlikely the dispatch had actually been cabled. It may have cleared through the Egyptian capital by diplomatic pouch. But it appeared equally likely some Pravda correspondent, perhaps assigned to cover the Tahrir and Cairo conferences, may have remained in Cairo for a vacation, heard the report in one of the city's rumor hot-spots and reported it to its editor upon his return to Moscow.

"UNFORTUNATE" TO BRITISH

Whether Pravda would go any farther in discrediting its own original story or would consider the matter closed with the publication of the British denial was problematical. There was a growing inclination on the part of the British press to drop the affair as an unfortunate incident whose damage has been done and repaired and which now is best docked in the limbo of the past.

Prior to Pravda's publication of the denial, there was a significant development when an old friend of Joseph Stalin, often the unofficial spokesman on foreign affairs, was quoted as emphasizing the need of continued Russo-British-American co-operation.

A radio Moscow broadcast of an article by Dmitri Manulsky, a leading member of the Communist party, had some effect of pouring oil on troubled water.

The Daily Telegraph quoted Manulsky's article as stating the need for unity among the three great Allied powers until victory has been achieved, and the equal need for later co-operation.

That Moscow has chosen to broadcast Manulsky's article, the telegraph said, "will be regarded as an indication the Soviets are concerned to check conclusions which the Pravda Cairo report had occasioned in some circles."

RAF Hits 400 Times Harder Than Nazis

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP)—The RAF has dropped 400 times more bombs on Germany so far this year than the German air force has dropped on Britain, Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair told Commons today.

From Jan. 1 through Jan. 18, the British bomber command dumped some 6000 (long) tons of explosives on German targets while only 15 tons were unloaded by the enemy on Britain.

innings. They held the floor almost continuously and argued almost exclusively on the "big" cost that mustering-out pay will bring to taxpayers.

Debate on the Lemke amendment, as well as on another offered by Rep. Walter V. Flosser of Missouri, will allow every member speaking time of at least five minutes. The Flosser amendment calls for a maximum of $400 in four payments, plus extended pay of $60 a month for 12 months for all unemployed veterans.

LEMKIE BEGINS DEFENSE

Lemke launched a defense of his amendment as soon as Rep. Andrew J. May of Kentucky, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, had finished his defense of the $300 figure, an amount he said he considered "excessive."

"All arguments against my amendment," Lemke said, "I heard in the bonus debates years ago. You all are paid $27.26 a day as a congressman and the veterans make it possible to collect that pay and yet many of you begrudge the veteran a dollar a day."

In answering May's contention that $300 is excessive, Lemke continued:

"It costs the government at least $150 a month to keep a man in the armed forces. There are many that are being kept that should long ago have been discharged. They are not fit and do not perform military service. Why not try some of your economy in bringing about a prompt discharge and then giving enough to the veteran so that he can readjust himself to civilian life?"

CAN SAVE BILLIONS

"We can still save billions along many lines if we will act promptly without taking it out of our veterans."

"We never raise the question of how many billions it will cost in materials, in guns, in planes and in battleships to win the war. But when it comes to the human side of our national defense, then we begin figuring how much it will cost and how little we can get away with. I know that the soldiers expect nothing unreasonable."

"Without soldiers, sailors, marines and aviators there can be no national defense. Without them, the warships, the submarines and airplanes will be at a standstill, and cannon, machine-guns and rifles will remain silent. We must be interested in the flesh and blood of our national defense."

Bricker Sees Peril in Bureaus

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 19—Declaring that America faces the future with confidence, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, in an address to more than 500 Democrats and Republicans, continued to trace the pattern of his attacks upon the Roosevelt New Deal, which he is making the issue of his campaign for the Republican nomination for President.

He spoke at a dinner given in his honor at the Tulsa Club by the Alexander Hamilton Club of Oklahoma.

Hamilton, he said, believed in sound finances, and he was applauded when he added that what the United States desperately needs today is the application to government of the sound philosophy of the great financier and statesman of the early days of the Republic.

Gov. Bricker warned that the New Deal bureaucracy in Washington "is undermining the will of the American people."

"When the war is finally won," he said, "we are going to set the American people free again."

Gov. Bricker frankly discussed his own candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, and made an obviously favorable impression on influential leaders.

The governor was assured that he had made many friends as a result of the first pre-convention campaign tour, which covered three states in the Southwest, Missouri, Texas and Oklahoma, and which ended when he boarded a private plane for the return trip to Columbus.

Coat That's a Dress, Too

By BETTINA BEDWELL

A COAT is also a costume—that is, as far as the eye can see—is an idea that I see around in the top-rank designer collections for spring.

When you see such a coat you see that it looks quite a lot like a dress, but it is also a very satisfactory coat. And, I don't doubt that enterprising womenfolk will wear such coats for both.

The way Louise Barnes Gallagher, one of the most famous of our designers, makes a costume coat can be seen in the sketch. This coat is very soft, stone blue shade of smooth wool, and it is buttoned from top to bottom on tiny blue buttons, which may or may not be buttoned up. The waistline section is slimmed by fitted sections, and below these are two box pleats in the skirt.

The sleeves are fitted into the wrists, and the neckline rises into a vestige of a collar, not a real one.

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

IT'S DOWNRIGHT seriousness to have a gaunt, hollow look about your neck and throat and up-and-down straightness... Be streamlined... but, not so painfully lean and lank that you've robbed your figure of its last vestige of femininity.

And, to have that coveted feminine look... a gal has just got to have curves... of the throat and shoulders.

How many times have you seen girls with pretty, winsome faces and remarked... Above the neck, she's something... But, below the neck... too thin... too bony.

UP TO GIRLS

It is up to the girls back home... waiting for Johnny to come marching back into their hearts again... to perpetuate their attraction and appeal... and to cultivate the trend to healthier-looking types.

There is actually a very famous cream... dedicated solely to the care of curves... which is used specially for the throat, neck and chest. It must be used always BELOW the chin... never on the face. It is such a lush, fertile cream... the say... that it is even over-rich for the scanner layers of tissue that compose your complexion.

Its famous creator intended that this rich, rich cream... of a clotted consistency... should be used lavishly over the neck, shoulders, arms and even elbows... so that is spite of its luxuriant and rare ingredients... the cost is undeniably low. Therefore, don't stint in its use.

It is to be used before you get into your bed... and massaged thoroughly into the skin. Start under the ears and go around the chin... patting it in with firm, upward rotary movements... for fifteen minutes. Take even more time, if you like... and, with more gentle, rotary rubbing... work into the collarbone... often a very hollow-looking feature... If you use it for above-the-waistline curves... it's a lighter pressure over the breast.

LEAVE ON OVERNIGHT

Do this several times a week and leave it on overnight... it need not interfere with your glamorous night-time get-up.

In the morning, spray cold water where you have massaged and watch the results. 'Tis said that this treatment has turned out more than one pair of beautiful shoulders.

For the name of this unique cream-for-curves, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBERTY 4000, except the week-end, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A WOMAN'S CURVES... are proud possessions... and should be accentuated for that truly feminine look... Well-rounded neck and shoulders enhance the above-the-waistline beauty... equally important to charm as the above-the-neck beauty. Lovely Universal star, Maria Montez, has no scrawny hollowness around her shoulders to detract from facial beauty.

Miserable—Why?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—I'm 24 years old and have been married seven years. We have a beautiful baby, a nice home and my husband is very good to me. The baby is almost two years old. Soon after the baby was born I had a severe nervous breakdown and was treated by a physician and a psychiatrist until I finally convinced myself I'd have to get out of this rut.

It's constantly on my mind that I'm not myself. It breaks my heart to see other mothers enjoying their children when I walk around feeling as though I don't exist. Can you help me get away from these foolish thoughts? (MRS.) M. G.

The trouble may be that you have too much leisure to think about yourself and your feelings. Surely a woman who has a devoted husband who does everything for her and an adorable baby should not indulge herself in morbid imaginations.

In a nervous ailment like yours, I knew a case where a woman cured herself by taking rhythmic dancing. If that's not practical, why not take up Red Cross work?

It has always been a low in manners to hog a seat in a bus or street car or train. Nowadays, with travelers exceptionally tired, it's downright cruel of you not to move over in your seat and give the weary traveler his or her rightful amount of space. You can be a disagreeable person and abide by the "Hogs is hogs" way of thinking and living. Or, bless your heart, you can "have a heart" for the comfort of another human being.—MRS. BEECKMAN.

Calavo Salad

By MARTHA LEE

HOW DO YOU SERVE calavos when you want to use the fruit as a main course—taking advantage of its value as a real food? Do you peel the fruit after you cut it into halves or do you short-cut by merely halving each calavo without peeling?

There is one notable difference between the peeled halves and the famed calavo "half-shell" service. The half-shell uses its attractive jacket as part of its color appeal. In either case the seed is removed and each half sprinkled with lemon juice and salt.

But it's in the method of serving that the two forms really differ. Peeled calavo halves are always eaten with a fork. Present day thrift put it: O. K. on serving and eating calavo half-shells with a spoon. That's the only efficient way to get at those special mineral values and the extra flavor in the luscious green portion just underneath the skin.

Top either peeled halves or calavo half-shells with any crunchy salad combination.

Here's an appetite-rousing example of how to make calavos do much of the work next time you entertain.

CALAVO SALAD BOWL

3 calavo pears Lemon juice
2 cucumbers 2 tomatoes
2 bunches red radishes
2 bunches green onions
Salt 1/2 head lettuce

Shredded lettuce
Mayonnaise French dressing
Cut each calavo into halves lengthwise and remove seed and skin. Cut 5 calavo halves into lengthwise slices. Sprinkle with lemon juice and salt. Peel cucumbers and cut into lengthwise strips. Peel tomatoes and cut into wedges or slices. Trim roots and tops from onions and cut into pieces about 1 1/4 inches long. Starting at one end cut slits nearly to other end. Turn and cut slit the other way across, nearly to end. Place in cold water to "frill." Place 1/2 head lettuce in center of salad bowl, around it place the shredded lettuce, cucumbers, tomatoes, radishes and about half the calavo slices. Add French dressing and toss together lightly. Cover top with remaining calavo slices and onion "frill." Place the remaining calavo half on the 1/2 head lettuce and fill center of calavo with mayonnaise. Sliced celery, pickled beets, cooked celery root, cooked string beans or asparagus tips may be substituted for tomato and cucumber if out of season.

A gelatin salad whipped together quickly at the end of the day's work gives the busy woman of today a good start on tomorrow's dinner or supper plans.

CALAVO VEGETABLE RING MOULD

1 pkg. orange flavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups hot water
1 cup diced calavo
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1/2 cup diced cooked string beans
1/2 cup diced cooked carrots
lettuce for garnish
Salt Mayonnaise

Pour water over gelatin and stir to dissolve gelatin. Chill until thick but not firm. Whip until light and frothy. To prepare calavo, cut into halves lengthwise and remove seed and skin. Dice fruit, add lemon juice, a sprinkling of salt, and string beans and carrots. Add to gelatin and blend lightly. Pour into a ring mold and chill until firm. Unmold onto serving plate garnished with lettuce.

MRS. SAMUEL WAKEMAN (Frances McElwain) of Hingham, who won nationwide acclaim in her debutante days as a member of the Women's Olympic Ski team, as a yachtswoman and horseback rider, was one of the small company of guests at the wedding of Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks and Lord Stanley.

During the ceremony in a flower-banked suite at the Copley Plaza she and her husband, general manager of the Hingham Shipyard, sat with Mrs. John C. West, wife of the best man, who was the only American Navy officer present. Frannie accented her blonde hair and lovely rosy cheeks with a cinnamon brown dress, gold costume jewelry, beaver coat and hat. Mrs. West, also a striking blonde, was dressed in black with a fetching bonnet of pink fringed linen.

Mrs. James C. Carter and Mrs. John Lavalie, another pair of attractive Boston socialites present, were also in black. The former had frilly white organdie around the neckline and a hair ornament of black bows and veiling. Mrs. Lavalie, wife of the famous portrait painter, wore one of the new short-sleeved dressy blacks, with elbow length gloves, snug black beanie and a diamond lover's knot pin at the oval neckline of her gown.

Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Jr., Mrs. Luther Davis and Mrs. Carl Holmes were a very modish trio. The former wore a black satin peplum dress with a perky ice-blue satin beanie. Mrs. Davis set off her pin striped gray suit with a sheer white chiffon blouse and a skullcap of braided white straw. Mrs. Holmes was hatless and dressed in cocoa brown crepe trimmed with matching sequins.

Mountain of Waste Paper Grows in Salvage Drive

Greater Boston turned over countless tons of waste paper and magazine bundles to the war effort today as the regular monthly salvage collections continued in a score of communities.

"Only a wholehearted co-operative effort by every householder will assure the complete success of this worthwhile, patriotic task," declared Mayor Bernard L. Sullivan of Chelsea, where municipal trucks helped gather the much-needed paper.

"All of us must save every scrap of old newspaper, magazine material, wrapping paper and cardboard if we are to keep faith with our loved ones on the fighting fronts," the Chelsea mayor said.

In Winchester, salvage officials estimated waste paper to be flowing from homes of that town to New England paper mills at the rate of 750 tons a year, thanks to a salvage program being carried out by civilian defense workers.

John L. Munro, Boston cardboard manufacturer and chairman of waste paper salvage, sounded an appeal to housewives to tie waste paper in separate bundles of cardboard, magazines or newspaper.

14 BACK FROM HELL . . . By Burris Jenkins, Jr.

MERCHANT SEAMAN ARCHIE GIBBS HE WENT DOWN TWICE AND CAME UP ON A U-BOAT.

AT FIRST it's just a shadow moving across the stars . . . And then he feels the solid bulge of armored bull lift under his kicking legs and roll him across the deck plates, and of all the incredible nightmares dreamed by Archie Gibbs in 37 checkered years as Texas hobo and merchant seaman, this that is happening to him now is the most terrifying—and hardest to believe . . .

A voice from the conning tower calling "Kamerad!" — a hollow voice dripping with German accent—doesn't diminish Archie's terror at finding himself astride a Nazi U-boat in the Caribbean Sea at 9:30 of a June evening.

Yet Archie replies with the bravado only an American roustabout who has been everywhere and seen everything can muster: "Hell no, Kamerad!"

With the fantastic hope of somehow assuming to show—which he knows is less than one day's freighter run away—Archie is crawling over the side when the big arms of a German seaman grab the neck of his clothing and pull him upright on the foredeck.

It isn't necessary for Gibbs to understand the guttural "March Amerikaner!" while being propelled toward the conning tower ladder, to realize that this is not the place to argue. Ordinarily Archie Gibbs, who is no small man, might have put up sizeable resistance against even the crew of a U-boat.

But when a man has been torpedoed twice in 23 hours and swallowed a lot of oil and salt water on both occasions—with the consequent interruption to meals and sleep—some of the fight goes out of him. Archie recklessly becomes a little free with the elbows while climbing the ladder under another sailor's steps in a hammer-lock, and Archie finds himself peering into the gleaming muzzle of an automatic pistol shoved in his face by a U-boat officer.

Sub Knows Story Of Two Sinkings

In the faint light Archie can see the pig-eyed officer stare coldly for a long time before rapping in good English, "You know what happens if you not tell the truth?"

"Yes," draws Archie who is not unfamiliar either with police questioning or the business end of a gun. "I know my Germans."

The officer doesn't smile. He asks: "What is the name of your ship, where from, and where bound?" Archie gives the name of the ship but explains, "I don't know where she came from or where she was going because fast, that's what the crew told me about my ship. You sack my ship last night . . ."

"What cargo in first ship?" the officer continues. Archie tells him, "Transport planes and railroad rails." Again the German displays pleasure. His pleasure is short-lived. The submarine has been shelling the second ship which refuses to sink. Empty Drums Don't Burst Into Flames

"What cargo is in this ship?" the U-boat officer asks sharply. "Empty drums," lies Gibbs at the unfortunate moment when a sheet of flame bursts from the ship's hull.

"Empty drums," repeats the officer, studying the automatic at Archie's head, "do not make flame like that."

"That's what the idea," says Archie, talking the hell she was going because fast, "that's what the crew told me about my ship. You sack my ship last night . . ."

Poland's Plight

A LITTLE HISTORY throws a great deal of light on what Russia contemplates in regard to Poland, for she does contemplate, according to her Ambassador to Mexico, Constantin Oumansky, reconquering that half of Poland which she got from Hitler in September, 1939, as her price for remaining "neutral."

Back in July, 1932, Russia and Poland signed a treaty of non-aggression and agreed on their respective frontiers.

In May, 1934, this treaty was renewed until the end of 1945.

So when Russia took over half of Poland by force of arms in 1939 she ruthlessly and cynically violated her agreement to respect Poland's national sovereignty and frontiers.

But in 1941, when the German armies began to advance on Moscow, Stalin hurriedly made another pact with Poland, returning to the frontier status quo of 1932 and 1934.

Now that the Russian armies seem to be victorious, she is, so her own Mexican Ambassador admits (and Marshal Stalin has not specifically denied it), ready to return to the "frontier" of 1939 that she agreed on with Hitler.

But as Russia is headed toward Berlin, there is substantial reason to believe that she will eventually subjugate all of Poland in transit.

The perfiduousness of Stalin was never more clearly revealed than in his dealings with Poland, with which the Kremlin has severed all diplomatic relations, refusing to recognize the Polish Government in Exile in London.

Stalin must know that if he persists in his imperialistic designs on Poland, the Baltic and Balkan states, he will lose the support of both the United States and England, drive a fatal wedge between the Allies and what is more terrible than all, sow the seed of another war—just when we shall have victory within our grasp.

Red Russia by her continued perfidies became not only the progenitor of this war when she gave Hitler in August, 1939, the go-ahead signal to conquer Europe, but she is thus, from all present appearances, possibly instigating another war, for it is incredible that the United States and England will stand idly by and see Communistic Russia take over all the vast territory to the west of her, right up to the German and Italian borders, without raising a hand to defend the Atlantic Charter, of which Russia is a signatory.

In the face of all this comes the incredibly glib Wendell Willkie with a slogan, "Don't stir distrust of Russia!" It is Russia herself which for 25 years has been sowing distrust.

She has not only broken her pledges to Poland and the Baltic states but she has plotted revolutions against established forms of government in many countries, including our own.

Within two months, if there is no Russian reversal, Anglo-American statesmanship and the Atlantic Charter will undergo their supreme test.

Boston's Good Example

BOSTON school superintendents are establishing special courses at Teachers' College for returning war veterans. The purpose is to give hundreds of men who left high school to join the armed forces an opportunity to prepare for the college or university training which the Federal Government is expected to offer them.

In this venture Boston is setting a commendable example for all the larger cities of the nation.

It would be a serious mistake to restrict the veterans' educational program to high school graduates or those who had completed one or two years of college study before their enlistment.

Veterans' education must be fair and democratic; each soldier, sailor and marine should have a chance to prepare himself for the trade or profession he wants to enter.

Equally praiseworthy is Boston's desire to preserve home rule in education. Neither the former soldiers nor learning would benefit if veterans' rehabilitation were made an excuse for Federal control of the nation's high schools and colleges.

More Waste Paper Needed

BOSTON'S SUPPORT of the drive for waste paper is disappointing. Collections in two important wards have been so far below expectations that Director George G. Hyland of the municipal salvage committee now finds it necessary to warn:

"It is of vital importance that every possible pound of waste paper be salvaged so that it can be utilized to increase the stock piles at paper mills where equipment is being turned out for our fighting forces. It is the patriotic duty of everyone to see that no paper is thrown away when our country needs it so urgently."

Waste paper is a commodity which exists in abundance in the average home. An hour's search will usually reveal several hundred pounds of old newspapers, magazines, books and cartons which should be donated to the war effort.

Of course the collection of paper takes time but it is time well spent when it assures the prompt shipment of food, ammunition and vital materials, including blood plasma, to our fighting sons abroad.

IS REPORTED Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins keeps her hat on while in her office. Seems a quaint idea, but I don't think there is any rule in the etiquette book against it. Some hair or hat expert should invent a hat or original system to enable a woman to take off her chapeau without considering it a hardship. No matter how politely you ask a woman in a film theater to remove her hat, she gives you a nasty look.

BRIEFLY: Jokes of radio comics on Sinatra's rejection for military service because of physical disability are in extremely poor taste. Sinatra was really anxious to get in and his rejection made him feel badly. Why rub it in? The basic idea of Fascism is that the average man has not sufficient intelligence and common sense to take care of himself and that therefore his life should be managed by the government. Keep this angle in mind when discussing Fascism and Fascist-minded people.

THINGS TO COME: An electric washing machine that will do the family washing in 30 minutes. That is what is promised to be available after the war. This is only one of the many labor saving devices for housewives that will be on the market in 1946 or thereabouts. So have patience, ladies. After the war you will be able to do your housework in two hours or less, like Susie, the super duper, California housekeeping genius. Not only that, but very little labor will be involved. You'll just have to press buttons.

PASSING BY: Sam Langford. Great and courageous boxer of yesterday. Now blind. Sam has been living, a forgotten man, in a cheap room in Harlem, dependent on a charity for the blind. That's how the highly prosperous boxing game takes care of its own... Taylor Holmes. Veteran thespian. Now with the road company of that hilarious play "The Doughgirls." Mr. Holmes made his first big hit in "His Majesty, Bunker Bean." Remember it?

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: In London they have reversed things by producing a stage play based on a film. The London stage hit, "Halfway to Heaven," is based on the film, "Here Comes Mr. Jordan" . . . Jane Lane of Long Beach, Cal., has been accepted for the My Name Is a Poem Club . . . Ginger Rogers is a brilliant actress and a superb dancer, but the Hollywood make-up artists seem to be making her too perfect looking to be human. QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Have bet the sergeant there has been no night horse racing in past 40 years. Do I win? A—Were you specific? Did you say no "night running horse" racing? If not you lose. Up to less than two years ago there was night harness horse racing at Roosevelt Raceway, Long Island, N. Y., and Saratoga Raceway, Saratoga, N. Y. Q—How long are you going to continue to ignore Leo women? What do the star gazers say about us? A—Leo women make great career women. But no matter how successful they are in a career, they are not happy unless in love. Leo women, say the star gazers, have more second marriages than those born under any other sign. They marry impulsively the first time and exercise great care in selecting a mate the second time. The Leo girls like to flirt, even when married, but their flirtations are usually harmless. Most Leo wives have two children, no more, no less. Norma Shearer and Myrna Loy are Leo women.

ASIDES: You have often heard the expression "as old as Methuselah," but can you say offhand just what the age of the old boy was? In case you can't, please be informed Methuselah died at the age of 969 . . . Young women working in war plants get in the habit of talking loudly while at work to make themselves heard and this has a tendency to make them talk loudly while away from work. That's bad. All women should strive to keep their voices low. Bill Shakespeare was very right when he observed: "Her voice was gentle and low, an excellent thing in women."

My Day By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Tuesday—Have I said anything to you before about the fact that this year is the centennial year for the Y. M. C. A.? Twelve young men started this organization in a hall bedroom and now there are 10,000 associations in 68 countries. In our own country today, 1200 associations with more than 10,000,000 members are participating in serving the armed forces in addition to maintaining their regular program.

The success of this association means that when you try to translate your religion into action in daily life, it has a great appeal for young people.

The United Council for Church Women is also trying to do some work that will require year-round daily thinking and action. They have decided to observe "World Community Day" annually.

MRS. EMORY ROSS, a vice-president of the United Council, said in a release to the press: "Out of the observance has come a determination of church women all over the nation to continue to study the price of an enduring peace."

Yesterday the eighth annual report of the social security board of the federal security agency was issued. I hope every person reading it will think of it in connection with our economic bill of rights for America, as described in the President's message last Tuesday.

ABOUT 20,000,000 workers are not yet covered by social insurance because of the restrictions in the existing program. These include farm workers and domestic workers, self employed, employees of federal, state and local governments, employees of non-profit organizations, maritime workers and many employees of small firms. Tomorrow I would like to point out where the board feels the program is insufficiently developed.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19—You'd know without my telling you that Diana Lynn's ability as a piano player wouldn't be ignored by her boss, Buddy De Sylva. Diana makes her debut as a pianist at the Wilshire Ebell Theater Friday night and after that she'll be starred in "Charm School," the Alice Duane Miller story which has been made twice in motion pictures.

Carmen Miranda

Diana will play the piano in the 1944 "Charm School" version. Beloved Wally Reid was starred in the original silent movie and it was one of his best pictures. Then Betty Grable, before she was head pin-up girl and No. 1 at the box office, made a talkie of "Charm School" under another title at Paramount in 1935.

DARRYL ZANUCK, who is keeping production humming at 20th Century-Fox, made an interesting decision when he decided to put "Something for the Boys" into production, with Carmen Miranda in the Ethel Merman role. When Darryl bought it he had Betty Grable in mind. But Betty has taken time out to have a baby and it will be summer before she is back at the studio. So now that the Merman show in New York has closed, Irving Starr has been chosen to produce the movie version. Naturally, some of the catchy songs by Cole Porter and Dorothy and Herb Fields will be used, but there will also be some new numbers written by No. 1 song writer, Jimmy McHugh, and Harold Adamson.

FRED STONE reached here Friday to check in at the Selznick studios. He is playing an American farmer for David Selznick in "Since You Went Away," and while the role is not one of the top starring roles it gives him a nice bit. Fred has been on the road seven months with "You Can't Take It With You," and at 70 he is still going strong. Heartwarming that Fred, who was a top musical comedy star in the days of "The Red Mill," is still in there pitching.

IF JERRY COOPER didn't have such a beautiful voice I would say he had his work cut out for him the other night at the Clover Club. When Jerry, my old friend from the Hollywood Hotel radio show days, came out for his solo vocal stint he ran into such "expert" ringsiders in the audience as Frank Sinatra, Frances Langford and Deanna Durbin. Frankie was with Frances and Jon Hall and Deanna was escorted by her good-looking leading man in "Christmas Holiday," Dean Jagger. "There are so many good singers in the house I've got my nerve to warble," said Jerry.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Mrs. John Carradine telephones there is no truth in the story she and her husband are reconciling. "He hasn't asked to come back and if he did I wouldn't be interested," she said. Frances Langford has turned down two important movie deals to go to South America next month; Dolores Moran and Maj. Gus Daymond are doing the town together; Frank Sinatra stopped trade and traffic in Adelson's when he spent all his pocket money for food for his new apartment. Lieut. Robert Stack arrives today for his first leave in months and Helen Ferguson is giving a dinner in his honor. The Joan Blondell-Dick Powell case remains status quo in spite of their friends' efforts to bring them together. The William Princes expect their second baby in May. He's the new actor at Warners. Buz Berkeley, with one arm in a cast and other around Lorraine Breecher, at Slapsie Maxie's.

Reviews "The Gay Illiterate"

"THE Gay Illiterate," just published by Doubleday Doran, is Louella Parsons' own story, a warm little volume of memories of her career. She —her loves, her friendships, her enemies, her good and bad fortune. I am told that she appropriated her title from a magazine article that poked fun at her disregard of infinitives and syntax and such, which is second only to my own.

She was just entering upon a big career with the Hearst newspapers in New York city when tuberculosis cut her down. I remember her then as a very pretty young girl. I am slightly startled by her admission to "half a century." She had to spend a long time in the California desert to recover her health and then Mr. Hearst assigned her permanently to Hollywood to become, in my opinion, one of the greatest women newspaper reporters we have ever had.

She was the pioneer in her field. Her competition when she started was mainly local, while she was widely syndicated even for those days. She did not have to worry about any rivals, but:

"However, just to be safe, I laid down a rule I was to have all the news exclusive—that it was useless to me if it appeared in any other newspaper. And as long as I can tear out a telephone by the roots making myself heard that way will stay in effect—or, as the boys say, Parsons is on the war-path again."

"MOVIE 'SCOOPS' have been, and still are to me, the breath of my job. Say or think what you will about my talents as a writer pro and con (and a great deal has been said con)—but question my reportorial ability and them's fighting words. I am proud of being a good reporter. Getting a beat on a big Hollywood story is the zest of my job—and possibly the breath of my life."

These paragraphs from "The Gay Illiterate" partly explain "Lolly" Parsons, normally a gentle lady, who lives in the greatest refinement, but whose pursuit of news is positively tigerish and whose fierce assertion of her right to have it first, compels the admiration of a weakling like myself. Small wonder she is a fabulous figure of movieland and of the newspaper game.

HER APPETITE for news is insatiable. As she says, she has never been casual about Hollywood news. It is all important news to her—if she gets it first, which is usually the case. She is always on duty. The result must be quite wearing physically and mentally but it has its compensations. It has made her the most widely circulated and the highest paid worker in her field.

I do not see how she found time to write "The Gay Illiterate," but it is highly entertaining. Her background includes the most glamorous era of the industry when "Doug and Mary" were king and queen and the social life of the movie community was more intimate and exciting. When Hollywood heard that "Lolly" was writing a being, it waited on the publication with what you might call bated breath, expecting she would pay off some old scores with interest.

BUT IT IS NOT in "Lolly" to nurse grudges. She is too warm hearted. Besides, she is too much the reporter to subordinate her story to her own feuds. Her devotion to her daughter, Harriet, and to her husband, Dr. Harry B. Martin, is reflected throughout the book, and a woman of the depth of feeling she displays in that respect has no time for reflection on old quarrels.

In this detail, the book may be a little disappointing to some in Hollywood. But the color of the past and the present that she gets into her writing and the names she names will make it a big seller there and elsewhere. She laughs at herself much more than she does at others. She admits she is a spendthrift but says she has had fun letting the money fly. Her loyalty to old friends is terrific. "The Gay Illiterate" is well worth reading.

The story reveals that a motivating force behind the great scientific discovery of radium was a great romance. When a poor but brilliant Polish student, Marie Sklodowska, faints from hunger in a classroom, her professor generously arranges for her to do some experimental work in the laboratory of Pierre Curie, professor of physics at the university.

In spite of himself, Pierre falls in love with the beautiful and brilliant girl, persuades her to marry him to insure their "future collaboration." Marie, fascinated by a strange phenomenon noticed by the fellow professor, sets out to discover the secret.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has given its stars an excellent supporting cast, including Dame May Whitty, Henry Travers, Robert Walker, Albert Basserman, C. Aubrey Smith, Victor Francen, Reginald Owen, Van Johnson and Margaret O'Brien.

Metropolitan Opera Shudders as Hepcats Squeal at Boogie-Woogie Debut

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—The sedate Metropolitan Opera House blew its top, from cellar to chandelier it rocked to the red hot rhythms of barrelhouse, boogie woogie and the blues.

Jazz invaded Met's hallowed portals last night for the first time, and if Mozart, Wagner and Verdi did Immanuel turns in their respective graves it must have been in swiftness.

The lowdown music was beat out by trumpeter Louis Armstrong, sax-playing Coleman Hawkings, Jack Teagarden and his slip horn and a dozen more jive-minded musicians.

The audience whistled, squealed, stamped and clapped in syncopation. The plush diamond horseshoe quaked and staid ushers lifted their eyebrows.

Jive-educated toes tapped in unison as Mildred Bailey sang "Squeeze Me." Red Norvo swung out "I Got Rhythm" on his xylophone, and Lionel Hampton and Sidney Catlett thumped a torrid drum duel.

Said one conservative looking, middle-aged usher: "If I said what I think of this, I'd be jailed."

Civilians Get More Cocoa and Coffee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (INS)—The War Food Administration disclosed that civilians will get slightly more cocoa and chocolate and nearly normal supplies of coffee in 1944 because of improved shipping conditions. Allocations will give each domestic consumer the products of about four pounds of cocoa beans compared to three and a half last year. Civilians are to receive about one billion 750 million pounds of roasted coffee.

26 Judge Murphy Named Steward at Suffolk

By JACK CONWAY

JUDGE JOSEPH A. MURPHY of St. Louis and Coral Gables, Fla., who will celebrate his golden anniversary as a racing official in June, has been named a steward at Suffolk Downs by President Charles F. Adams, Bruce Wetmore and the board of directors. He replaced Ed Brown who last season took over the duties of the late Tom Thorp who was one of the greatest stewards ever to grace a New England stand.

It was known during the closing days of the Suffolk Downs meeting that if Adams, Wetmore and their associates remained in control of the East Boston track that Brown would not be back this year. Brown served as a steward at Garden State in Jersey and at the new track in Mexico City.

Herman Conkling and Billy Almy will be the other association stewards at Suffolk Downs, while John Edwards is expected to represent the State again. Judge Murphy is 75 years of age. He recently resigned as state steward in Michigan. He felt that with twilight racing the long hours were too much of a strain on him. Judge Murphy planned to retire as a racing steward, but President Adams of Suffolk Downs was able to prevail upon him to remain in the game.

Was Star Athlete

JUDGE MURPHY was a star athlete when at the University of St. Louis. He was a crack sprinter, while he was also a baseball pitcher. He wrote sports on the St. Louis Democrat and for the Chicago Tribune. He is credited with originating the first "form" of a race.

By next June Judge Murphy will have been a racing official 50 years. Racing Sec. Charley McLennan of Suffolk Downs and Herman Conkling, steward, consider Judge Murphy the best racing official in the country.

Judge Murphy tells with a chuckle of the start of the American Derby in 1893. There was a post delay of one hour 44 minutes which is a world's record. In those days the starter hit a drum when a start was official.

Judge Murphy is wintering at Coral Gables. He will assist Racing Sec. McLennan, who is at Hialeah Park, in making plans for the coming Suffolk Downs meeting.

Bruins' Lineup Weak

WITHOUT THE services of Cowley, Crawford and Gardiner, the Bruins played the best possible hockey under the circumstances, but it was not good enough to make the game even close.

It was the first time this season that a Bruins' game has been completely sold out on the night of the contest. There was not a single ticket placed on sale at the box office at the Garden. Thousands of late comers were unable to secure tickets for the contest.

If there had been unlimited seats a crowd of 25,000 would have witnessed the battle.

It was unfortunate that the Bruins were obliged to enter a game of such importance lacking so many top-flight players. The Maple Leafs, on the other hand, placed a strong club on the ice, and they were in command of the situation throughout the contest.

Later when Cowley, Crawford and Gardiner get back into the lineup, it will be interesting to see how the Bruins do against Toronto. You may be sure they will make a much better showing than they did last night.

Random Shots at Target

BILLY AMES of Narragansett Park, a red hot hockey fan, came up from Providence for the game.

So did John Aborn, Providence sports writer.

Frank Ryan says more out-of-town newspapermen covered the contest than have been on hand for any home Bruins game this season.

Indians, Reds Train At U. of Indiana

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 19 (INS)—The University of Indiana again will be the training site this spring for the Cincinnati Reds of the National League and the Indianapolis Indians of the American Ass'n, it was announced today.

The Reds will arrive March 12 and the Indians March 15.

C. L. S. vs. Rindge

Cambridge Rindge will tangle in a basketball game with Rindge Tech Friday night at Rindge Tech gym. The teams are evenly matched and are tied for the Suburban League lead.

Toronto Gets 'Dodge' In 'Grudge' With B's

By BILL GRIMES

Completely disorganized by the absence of Bill Cowley and Jack Crawford, the Bruins were no match for Toronto's Maple Leafs and went down to a 7-2 defeat before 13,500 fans at Boston Garden.

Due to the poor article of hockey played by the Bruins, plus the "Three Maple Leafs for Cowley" buildup that some of the Johnny-Come-Lately experts fell for, the cash customers were doubly disappointed.

The Rossmen cannot be as bad as they looked last night. Of course, they missed Cowley and Crawford. Even so, if they were in shape, they would have shown to much better advantage. It's been evident for weeks the Bruins are below par physically. Last night, they shot their bolts chasing the Maple Leafs in the first period.

"HOLLETT OVER EGAN"

After scoring their fifth goal early in the second stanza, the Leafs were content to coast. While coasting, they were still better than the Rossmen. In the final period, the Bruins slowed down to a walk. Before the game was over the Gallery Gods were yelling "We want Hollett," which was not a reflection on Pat Egan personally but on the Boston club as a whole.

The Bruins have now lost three in a row to the Leafs and trail them, 3 to 4, in seven games.

Lorne Carr, Toronto's veteran right wing, was the scoring star with three goals and one assist. He's now out in front of Cowley for individual honors, with 24 goals, 29 assists for 53 points. Herbie Cain, with one assist, is on even terms with "Cowboy" Bill with 52 points. Babe Pratt, giant defense man, picked up four more points. With 20 games to play, it should be a breeze for him to break the all-time high scoring mark of 44 points for rear guardsmen, which Hollett established last season. Pratt has made 11 goals and has been credited with 28 assists, 39 points.

"BUSHY" HURT

Art "Stoney" Jackson scored both Boston goals. His first was one of the prettiest of the season. Late in the second period, he stick-handled the entire Toronto club and beat Paul Bibeault. With less than five minutes to go in the final period, "Stoney" scored again, assisted by Herbie Cain and Guy Labrie.

The Bruins lost "Busher" Jackson in the first period. Trailing 0 to 2, "Busher" took off at Don Webster back of the Boston cage as the young Leaf ducked. Jackson crashed into the boards, twisted his ankle and knee ligaments and will be out of the lineup two weeks.

In the third period, George Boothman tossed young Russ Kopak into the back boards, and the former Olympic sprained his thumb. He was lucky he didn't break his back. Guy Labrie, an other ex-Pic, pulled a stomach muscle.

Spud Chandler Classed 1A

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—Big Ed Levy, who failed to make the grade last spring as a first baseman for the championship New York Yankees, will be given a tryout as an outfielder at Atlantic City this spring, the Yankees' front office indicated today.

At the same time, star pitcher Spud Chandler sent word he expected to be called soon for an Army physical examination at his Moultrie, Ga., home. He is 1-A.

Bill Grimes On Rostrum

Bill Grimes, recognized as Boston's best informed sports writer, will be toastmaster at the annual banquet for the members of the Boston Evening American-Daily Record Board of Coaches All-Scholastic football team to be held Monday night at the Hotel Lenox.

All-Scholastic maroon sweaters with blue and white trimmings, awarded by the James W. Brine Sporting Goods Company, and gold, engraved football charms will be presented to the eleven members of the team.

Of the group picked, two of them have already entered the armed forces and will not be here for the banquet. Mel Massucco, Arlington High School back, has joined the Merchant Marine, while George Florentine, Everett tackle, has hooked up with the U. S. Marines. Their awards will be forwarded to their homes.

SILVER SKATES ENTRIES CLOSE TOMORROW

All entries for the Silver Skates Derby at the Boston Garden a week from Sunday must be in the mail by midnight tomorrow.

Remember—Midnight Thursday is the deadline—no late entries will be accepted, so fill that blank out pronto and get it in if you intend to be on that starting line when the big event rolls around.

And now let's take time out for the mail and answer a few questions which have been puzzling youngsters:

Q—Do I need special skates or uniform?

A—No special skates are needed and a uniform is not required—in fact, more than half the skaters won't be uniformed.

Q—Do I have to belong to a club?

A—No. Any individual as long as he or she is an amateur, can compete.

Q—I am a beginner, do I have to skate against champions?

A—There are no defending champions at any time. Every winner of previous years must move up a class regardless of age and the senior winners cannot compete again.

Q—What does it cost to compete in the Derby?

A—There is no entry fee of any kind. Seniors, however, must be registered and that detail is on the entry blank. Anybody under 18 needs only to file the blank without anything else.

Q—I live out of the state, can I compete?

A—The Derby is open to every amateur in New England.

Q—What is the age limit?

A—There is none. To date the age range in our entries is from five to 65.

Q—I am a serviceman from another part of the country. Can I enter?

A—Yes. The exception to the New England rule applies to servicemen. There will be a special race for the boys in the service and it makes no difference where they originally hail from.

And that's the story in brief.

These questions and answers should settle any problems you may have.

Sharkey the Seal Can Jump 5 Feet

The Sportsmen's Show is longer long... especially that any one act ever eclipsed every other on a star-studded program, then Mark Huling and his "over-educated" seal is that act.

So enthusiastically did the Arena audiences receive him, so many questions did they ask that we followed Sharkey and his trainer into the dressing room to find out the answers. There we were told that:

Sharkey is 8 years old... he can leap five feet out of the water if the tank is deep enough to afford a good "take-off"... he was born on Catalina Island, off the California coast. All the trained seals are... he has been performing five years... it took Huling only one year to teach him tricks enough to appear in public... he picks up new ones each week. "Sometimes it takes him only a day to learn one," says Huling. "He's the most intelligent seal I ever worked with."

Huling has been training seals since 1907. At one time he had 21 with Ringling Bros. Seventeen worked in five different acts, the others being used as "spares"... "Seals are very jealous," says Huling. "I find if I work with them individually, they're liable to be lethargic. If I work them three in a group, each strives to outdo the other and they learn rapidly..." Huling conducts a "Seal College" in Kingston, N. Y. There he has a plant 50 feet by 85 which has a tank 30 feet by 15 and six feet deep... His daughter starts the seals on their course of instruction and Huling himself applies the finishing touches between shows.

Sharkey eats 10 pounds of fish a day. "Anything that's boneless," says Huling... Seals live as long as a human, some reaching the age of 100... Huling's brother, Ray, once had a seal who performed for 22 years... "Sharkey is tireless," says Huling. "He'd do 50 shows a day with enthusiasm. He'd swim from daylight to dark, and if you think he swims fast here you ought to see him at home. Frightened, he travels as fast as 70 miles an hour. And he can stay under water 10 minutes."

How did he get the name "Sharkey"? "I wanted a name that sounded nautical," says Huling, "and the way Sharkey swam reminded me of a shark. Ergo..." During his five days in Boston, Sharkey "spoke" over the radio, rode in a taxicab and elevator with Huling

Frisco Golf Tilt Shows First Profit

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19 (AP)—For the first time in the 13-year history of the San Francisco open golf tournament the annual event netted a profit this year.

J. Roger Deas, secretary of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the tournament, said all expenses this year were cleared on the second day of play and that the last two days' receipts were clear profit.

Enlist! Cronin Says, 'It's a Little Early'

"Joe Cronin enlisting!" exclaimed Eddie Collins today as he scanned a morning paper headline. "That's news to me," the Sox general manager continued, "and I believe it is to Joe himself. He calls me nearly every day, visits the office twice a week, and he even hinted at taking the step."

"Only last Friday we spent four hours together making plans for the coming season, and if he had any thought of enlisting I'm sure he would have mentioned it to me, certainly to Mr. Hawkey. No, I can't place much credence in that story. Here, let's check. We'll get Joe on the phone."

A call was put through to the Diamond Tank Co. in Wakefield, a defense plant where the Sox manager has been working as an expediter.

Ted Williams Wants a Zero:

Good Conduct, Hard Toil Win Ted Marine's Praise

By HUCK FINNEGAN
Approved by Office of Public Relations, U. S. Navy. Copyright, 1944, by Boston Sunday Atlas-American

PENSACOLA, Fla. (delayed)—Maj. Graham H. Benson, USMC, squadron commander at Saufley Field, talked at length about Naval Aviation Cadet Ted Williams.

"Frankly," he said, "I like his work. I had heard of his pop-out reputation in baseball and was looking for some sign of temperament. But he's been here since Dec. 12 (this was the 27th), and his conduct has been exemplary. He's had chances to pop, too."

"Here's one example: When cadets matriculate here, we give them what is called a course rules exam (ground and air traffic). No demerits are issued if they don't appear at first call, but Williams missed it. I called him to the office. Here was the chance to pin his ears back, it seemed."

"In he came, humble as pie, and what I liked about him was didn't ever try to offer an alibi. Had just become immersed in a navigation problem and forgot about it. So I made him do messenger service from the hangar in his spare time and watched to see if he'd bent. No sir, he legged every time a cadet or mechanic barked."

"His primary flight record was above average," Maj. Benson continued. (Saufley is intermediate), "and I'd say he's above average here. I know he had one 'down' on a solo check, but he went right up and turned in a grand flight."

"Call Pratt," he diverged, addressing himself to Lieut. McGowan, chief assistant Ensign Kester Pratt, from Terre Haute, Ind., entered the office. Said Maj. Benson: "Tell this gentleman about Williams' flying."

"I just had him on three trips, sir, but I'd say he was slightly above average," replied the apple-checked ensign.

"Turned in a fine formation flight. He enjoys flying, sir, and has exceptional coordination. Industrious, too. Why, when I showed him the map he knew all about it. Had studied it beforehand. Anything else, sir?"

There wasn't. Perhaps if a major was talking and he wanted to convince me.

TED SITTING PRETTY

"I believe," added the major, "that if you move around the barracks, you'll find Williams pretty well liked by one and sundry. He's in his room every night, plugging away. Never leaves the post, even on his day off. I'm delighted to hear he applied for the Marine, and I only hope he can serve under me as an instructor here after he's commissioned."

That's the squadron commander talking, so Williams seems to be sitting pretty. But as pointed before he wouldn't be here if he didn't have the stuff. He'd have been dropped at Chapel Hill for disciplinary reasons, or at Bunker Hill, Ind., for lack of flying talent. Percentage of washouts is small here, though two cadets did get theuster on that very Dec. 27, one for celebrating too boisterously at Christmas, the other for a poor formation flight.

Where does Ted go from here? Here's the way they operate at Pensacola: Incoming cadets are enrolled at Saufley or Ellington Fields. After three weeks (flight conditions willing) they move to Whiting Field to learn instrument flying (everything under the hood). One of Williams' pre-Christmas roomies—Jack McQuaid of Jacksonville—moved to Whiting Christmas Day.

From Whiting they join the "Final Squadron" at Corry, Bronson or Barin Fields—specialized training in fighters, torpedo bombers or dive bombers. (Williams hopes to fly a fighter, a bomber escort. He ranks high in gunnery. Why not, after all the practice he had shooting pigeons at Fenway Park.)

Cadets are commissioned before they leave Pensacola (Williams about April 1), then are sent for operational training to Jacksonville, Alameda, Cal., or Newport, Va. After that—for Ted—South Pacific or back to Pensacola, as Lieut. Theodore Samuel Williams, USMC, flight instructor.

PRESSURE TESTS TOUGH

"Pressure chamber" tests (don't forget that, Ted) count highly. Here, the cadets are exposed to various altitudes—18,000 feet without oxygen, 40,000 with full oxygen. Thus before they move on to Whiting Field instructors know whether they can fly that high without experiencing sinus trouble, emphysema (lack of oxygen) or the "bends."

It takes a well-conditioned, determined, courageous youngster to pass these rigid tests, but as you took leave of Maj. Benson you were certain that Williams would be among the leaders in his class.

A return trip to Barracks 338 for a final chin-fest with Williams. He was in much lighter spirits than earlier in the day, and he talked freely about everything from Frank Sinatra to you said it—hitting.

(Good times in the majors for veterans after the war, due to scarcity of ball players, are predicted by Ted Williams. Tomorrow's chapter of "Teddy Wants a Zero" gives his reasons for this belief, in the Boston Evening American.)
